<sup>1</sup> Established by Napoleon Bonaparte in 1808, this is France's highest distinction for scholarly work and the promotion of French language and culture.

Fernande Keufgens Davis was born in Montzen, Belgium. She has brought audiences to their feet with her very moving accounts of her experiences as a teenager working on her own in the Belgian Resistance. After the war, she entered Brugmann University School of Nursing in Brussels. She moved to the Philadelphia area in 1949, attended Temple University and Gwynedd Mercy College, earning a B.A. in French. Davis enjoyed a long career teaching French at secondary and university levels. She taught at Germantown Academy for 18 years and received the Outstanding Teacher of the Year award. She retired from the Academy serving as Head of the Modern Language Department. Madame Davis and her American soldier sweetheart enjoyed 54 years of married life together, and raised two children.

Madame Davis's memoir is Girl in the Belgian Resistance (with study questions), with two accompanying DVDs: one of 30 mins. in English, one of 60 minutes, where she speaks in French and then in English, and the viewer can choose French, English or no subtitles. An extensive, creative packet by Emily Z. Wagner is available, for teaching French through Madame Davis's book.
